FRANCE NEARS AGREEMENT WITH U. S. ON DEBT

Two Nations Will Reach Payment Understanding Soon, Is Claim

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Although parleys are still in the intangible state wherefrom only the vaguest inferences can be drawn, there is a decided feeling of optimism here that France and the United States will come soon to an understanding with reference to the payment of war debts.

There are reasons to believe that France has received assurance she can expect the fullest cooperation of the United States—both the government and the private bankers—if she can present a plan that seriously proposes to clear up her war indebtedness to this country.

Several things have contributed to the new turn of affairs, briefly they are:

1—Ambassador Houghton's speech warning France as well as Germany that co-operation inside Europe means American help and that obstruction means the alienation of American aid.

2—The elevation to the French ministry of finance of Joseph Caillaux, admittedly the ablest of French statesmen in financial problems.

3—The return of England to the gold standard through "helpful processes" in which America played a major role.

The entente between British and American officials has grown to the point now that both governments realize they must at least discuss the French situation with a view to helping France to a solution. France sees it growing

HERO OF SOMME DEAD IN FRANCE

General Mangin Commanded French-American Army In Famous Battle

PARIS, May 12.—General Charles Mangin, who commanded the combined French-American armies on the Somme front, died here today. His death resulted from a sudden attack of uremia and acute appendicitis.

General Mangin was one of the famous generals of the World War. He was decorated by the American government for distinguished service. He commanded the Tenth French army, including the American First division at Cantigny and the First and Second divisions at Soissons, during the famous July 18th drive.

Go Limit In Enforcement Of Prohibition, Is Order From President Coolidge

CHICAGO, May 12.—A nation-wide shake-up of all prohibition enforcement units to enliven them with new blood and purge them of political control will take place within a month, on orders from Washington. This was the news brought here today by Lincoln C. Andrews, recently appointed assistant secretary of the treasury, in charge of prohibition enforcement.

"President Coolidge has given the word to go the limit in prohibition enforcement," Andrews declared. "This present offensive against rum row is only the opening gun."

Andrews was here en route to El Paso, Texas, where he will attend a conference of United States and Mexican officials on border rum smuggling.

"Both President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon have given orders to go ahead," Andrews said. "All units are to be shaken up and new blood put into them within a month."

"The president has declared that the booze traffic and its attendant disorder must be stopped," Andrews added, "and his carte blanche to carry out this order has paved the way for the first real intensive nation-wide drive to enforce the prohibition amendment.

"With the supply of real liquor stopped at its source—rum row—the active campaign in the interior should net real results within a short time.

"The drive will be carried on by officials free from political entanglements, which will give us an opportunity to depose the real kings of the industry instead of dealing with the underlings who peddle their contraband goods at retail in small lots. These we will not bother with.

"Both judicial and investigating forces will be co-ordinated to work smoothly together and arrests will bring drastic prosecution. Convictions will carry jail sentences instead of the customary fines and the 'bootleggers de luxe' who, in the past have found it possible to escape punishment with their recently acquired fortunes, will find themselves behind prison bars.

"This, I believe, will have a very discouraging effect on liquor traffic in general."

Andrews gave no intimation of the methods to be pursued in the new drive, nor would he indicate where the federal axe would fall in the rearrangement of the various enforcement units.

"All I can say now," he replied to various questions, "is that the campaign plans are being drawn up and that the eve of the country's most arid era is at hand."

CHAMPION LANDS ON ENGLISH SOIL

Dempsey's Wife Indisposed By Sea Trip; Jack To Give Exhibition

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., May 12.—Trans-Atlantic travel had proven too much for Mrs. Jack Dempsey today. She was unable to appear for newspaper photographers when the Berengaria landed, bringing the heavyweight champion to fill exhibition dates for charity in England.

"I didn't intend to come to England at first," Dempsey said. "But when asked to box for charity for the kiddies, I couldn't refuse. I don't anticipate getting a match in England but there may be a big fight for me in America in the near future. There is always the question of Wills. I am still under contract to Tex Rickard.

"I will only be in England a couple of days. I am sorry my wife is unable to appear but hope she will be O. K. tomorrow."

Dempsey will make the first appearance of his career in an English ring today at the National Sporting club. The champion has accepted an invitation to spar three exhibition rounds for charity with Phil Scott, one of Great Britain's rising young heavyweights.

Caillaux Presents Program To Pay Inter-Allied Debts

PARIS, May 12.—Joseph Caillaux, French minister of finance, today proposed to the finance commission of the Chamber of Deputies that a part of the receipts under the Dawes plan be used to pay the inter-allied debts.

"I think that reparation receipts from Germany by their nature should be applied to special purposes," Finance Minister Caillaux told the members of the finance commission of the Chamber of Deputies at their meeting this afternoon.

"They serve in their entirety to complete the reconstruction of the liberated regions devastated by the war and to amortize all allied debts under such arrangements as will be made.

"The government will float a loan covered by expected payments from Germany. These loans will be used to restore the devastated regions and for improving the state railways."

Caillaux said he would demand that tax dodgers be severely punished.

Certain classifications of income taxes will be increased," he said. "France's domestic debt amounts to 280,000,000,000 francs. The nation must bear an increased burden amounting to 3,500,000,000 francs. This sum is indispensable."

LEADER GIVES PLEDGE TO REPUBLIC'S SUPPORT

War Lord Asserts He Will 'Avert Trouble, Practice Justice To All'

By W. D. WEYER
For International News Service.

BERLIN, May 12.—Discord marred the inauguration today of former Field Marshal Paul von Hindenburg as president of the German republic. When Hindenburg entered the Reichstag he was greeted by shouts of Communist deputies. They cried:

"Down with capitalists! Long live the world revolution."

The Nationalist deputies, staunch supporters of Hindenburg, sought to drown the noise of the Communists by shouting in turn:

"Three cheers for Hindenburg."

Quiet was restored and the inauguration ceremony proceeded as thousands of Hindenburg admirers outside the Reichstag cheered.

Hindenburg took the oath of office at noon. Swearing his allegiance to the Weimar constitution on which the republic was founded, President Hindenburg said:

"I shall devote my strength to the German people, serve for their benefit, avert trouble and practice justice to all.

Power from People

"I have just taken the oath as president according to the republican proclamation of August 1, 1919," continued Hindenburg. "The Reichstag and Reich president belong together, both were elected directly by the German people. On this common basis alone do they derive their authority and power. Only when working together do they form an incorporation of the people's sovereignity, which is the basis of our whole present constitutional life.

"That is a deep sense of the

DEFENSE TEST IS HIT BY COOLIDGE

President Not In Favor Of Armistice Day Program Such As Last Year

WASHINGTON, May 12.—President Coolidge is not in favor of holding a national defense test similar to the one held last year on Armistice day, it was officially stated at the White House today.

The war department has formulated all plans for the proposed test, drafted along the same lines as the tests held last year and has made its report to the president.

The president's disapproval came in answer to the receipt of the report.

STATHAM, Ga., May 12.—Calling Guy Thurman, one of Bartow county's wealthiest citizens, Mrs. Richard Bowman today shot him dead, as Thurman stood in the doorway of his store, thus avenging her husband, who was shot and killed by Thurman six months ago. The woman pumped five bullets into the merchant's body and surrendered to the authorities.

WATER SURVEY IS PLAN FOR MOJAVE

Senator Shortridge Believes Subterranean Rivers Are Under Desert

LOS ANGELES, May 12.—That the greater portion of the million acres of wasteland in the Mojave desert can be transformed into fertile fields, is the opinion of Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, who revealed today he had completed the collecting of data which convinced him that vast subterranean rivers flowed under the immense waste area.

Senator Shortridge, in the next session of Congress, will introduce a bill calling for a "water survey" of the arid desert district, he said.

PHILIPPINES SHIP EXTENSION OPPOSED

WASHINGTON, May 12.—President Coolidge today told White House callers that he was not convinced that extension of American coastwise shipping laws to the Philippines would benefit American shipping. He feels that such an extension might result in greater benefits to foreign shipping interests than American. The president has asked federal departments to prepare him reports on this plan.

THEATRE CHILD LABOR LAW SIGNED

SACRAMENTO, May 12.—Senate bill No. 407, designed to prevent theatre owners from escaping prosecution for employing minor children, in violation of the child labor law, was signed today by Governor Richardson. The act is intended to halt alleged practice of theatre proprietors of shifting responsibility in such cases by stating trat the children were employed through a booking agent. Under the new act the proprietors are required to produce proof that the performers are of age.

LIQUOR CRAFT SEEK NEW POINT OF LANDING

Six British And Belgian Steamers Already Off Southland, Report

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—A large portion of the rum-running fleet which has been halted by the federal coast cutters in their activities on the eastern coast are headed for the Pacific coast, according to prohibition officials here.

Enforcement Director Goff admitted today that he had been advised of the prospective invasion of the western coast, but declined to disclose what plans were on foot to meet the newcomers.

Already enforcement officers have their hands full on the west coast in coping with the steady flow of liquor from Canada, on the north, and through Mexico and South and Central American ports, on the south.

Coast Guard In Appeal For More Speedier Vessels

LOS ANGELES, May 12.—With "booze" lines being drawn tightly along the Atlantic seaboard, a noticeable increase in the activities of rum-runners off the coast of Southern California has been noted, officers of the coast guard said today.

Unable to cope with the speedy boats that land their whiskey cargoes and from the mother ships anchored forty miles at sea, an appeal from coast guard headquarters for speedier craft was forwarded to Washington today.

At one point the officers of the coast guard cutter Tamaroa reported thirty-five speedy boats were observed lightering cases of whiskey to the shore. After spending eight futile days in pursuit, the cutter was forced to put into port.

Big Cargo Of Liquor Off Southern California Coast

SAN DIEGO, May 12.—Discovery of a rendezvous of rum-runners in the Santa Barbara islands from which a half dozen big British and Belgian steamers are now engaged in the transfer of $4,000,000 worth of liquor to small speed boats for landing at various secret points along the Southern California coast will probably result in a redisposition of the revenue cutters on this coast, it was intimated here today.

There are ten new and extremely fast 75-foot patrol boats—sister ships to those which in recent weeks broke up and scattered the hundred smugglers comprising New York's rum row—now assigned to duty at San Francisco.

Local federal officers expect Captain J. M. Moore, Pacific division commander of the revenue service, with headquarters at San

RUSSIA REFUSES ARGENTINE 'ACE'

Permission Is Denied Major Zanni To Land In Globe Circling Event

TOKIO, May 12.—Major Pedro Zanni, Argentine 'round-the-world flyer, announced today that Russian refusal to permit him to land at Petropavlovsk, Kamchatka, had not altered his determination to continue with his flight.

Patrick D. Murphy, Vancouver, B. C., shipping man, told Zanni today that the sea-going tug Canada, one of two tugs to convoy the flyer across the Pacific, was due in Yokohama May 19.

Major Zanni expected to hop off from Kasumigaura for Minato within three days after the Canada's arrival.

Temporarily Disrupted

TOKIO, May 12.—Russia's refusal to permit the plans to fly over Russian territory beyond Moscow has temporarily disrupted the proposed Tokio-Paris flight sponsored by the Tokio newspaper Asahi Shimbun, it was learned here today.

The Soviet government would permit a flight to Moscow, it was said, but would not allow the plane to leave the Russian capital for Europe. The flight, however, was expected to be continued over China and India, starting within a few days.

JUDGE RESIGNS

SACRAMENTO, May 12.—Governor Richardson today received the resignation of Superior Judge F. C. Drumm of Orange county, effective July 2.

Curiosity Seekers Menace To Coolidge's Aged Father

PLYMOUTH, Vt., May 12.—Colonel John C. Coolidge, father of the president, must be spared by curiosity seekers and correspondence cranks. This was the edict today of the colonel's personal physician, Dr. Cram, who visited the 80-year-old man, following his momentary collapse.

Hundreds of thoughtless persons from far and wide have been intruding weekly on the seclusion of the colonel, and letter writers the country over have been swamping him with mail.

Colonel Coolidge has deemed it his duty to greet all who visit the birthplace of the president here, and to burn the midnight oil answering the mass of unsolicited correspondence. The colonel, proud of his son, is glad to be of assistance to those who have honored his boy.

The fact that he is 80 years old, that he has always lived in the quiet and seclusion of the hills and that advanced age has brought on slight hardening of the arteries has made the work of receiving and writing doubly hard for the president's father.

Dr. Cram said today that despite the fainting spell, the colonel seemed in improved health today, even better than he has been for some weeks. The physician said the only ailment detected was an occasional skipping of the heart. He ordered his patient not to be too active.

Colonel Coolidge was up and about his farm early today, making light of his condition.

"I never know how I feel until I see the newspapers," he remarked.

A number of Hollywood Templars were guests of Glendale Commandery at dinner at 6:30 o'clock when wives of the knights were present. Plans for organization of the Order of Beauseant, to be composed of wives of Knights Templars, were discussed by Mrs. A. L. Farrell.

PARIS, May 12.—French airplanes may bomb Riff positions in Morocco, it was indicated at the foreign office today.

The foreign office said that semi-official negotiations between the Spanish and French were under way to permit the French airplans to operate against the Tribesmen in Spanish territory.

Raymond Poincare was charged with dickering with Abd-el-Krim, Riff leader, for French aid against the Spanish in Morocco, in articles in L'Humanite today.

Andrew Berthon, Communist deputy, said he saw the two together in a Paris cafe in 1923 when Poincare was premier and minister of foreign affairs, and charged that Abd-el-Krim was then negotiating for French aid against the Spanish.

German Officer Aids In Digging Trenches

LONDON, May 12.—A German officer, dressed as a native Riff chief, has directed the construction of trenches and Abd-el-Krim's defensive operations in French Morocco, according to despatches today from Tangier to the Daily Telegraph. Krim's munitions have been supplied by a submarine which already has made three trips.

The French emphatically declare they will not aim to advance their lines beyond the positions occupied last year north of the Ouergha river, the despatches said.

Warlike, fanatic tribes which never have recognized the rule of any sultan, hold the sections north of the river. Fifteen battalions were en route to reinforce the French, bringing the total of French troops in the Ouergha territory to 40,000.

ON TO SAN DIEGO ORDER FOR LIONS

Fourth District Convention To Be Held There On May 26, 27, 28

On to San Diego is the order issued to the members of the Lions club of Glendale. The reason for this marching order is the district convention of the fourth district Lions clubs, comprising California, Nevada and Hawaii clubs of this hustling international service organization holding its sixth annual district convention May 26-27-28. It is expected that 2000 delegates and visitors will be in attendance.

The growth of Lions International is remarkable, there being sixteen new clubs added in California this year and the membership now approaching 5000 in the district. Favorable mention has been made of their care of the blind children. The organization publishes and distributes the Braille Magazine free to blind children all over the world.

Safety Campaign

Their safety campaign won the recognition of civic authorities everywhere. Their activities along juvenile court work and educational lines will be enlarged at the San Diego convention. District officers will be elected for the coming year. Plans to send a special train to the international convention at Cedar Point in June will be made.

Fourth district of California night for Cedar Point will be the outstanding feature of the entertainment. Every local club makes a contribution of California fruits and flowers for distribution and a special program will be presented.

Sojourning Masons To Hold Meeting Tonight

The new Masonic lodge in process of formation in Glendale will hold its final meeting prior to applying to the grand lodge for a dispensation at the Masonic temple on South Brand boulevard at 8 o'clock. Colonel A. M. Dewey, who has been chairman of all previous meetings, and who was elected master at the meeting two weeks ago, has been advised by the grand secretary that the name selected for the new lodge, "Sojourners," is not available, as a lodge has recently taken this title in another California city. One of two other names are suggested, either "Pilgrim" or "Wayfarer," both of which titles are open if wanted. The wardens and other officers will be chosen tonight.

A school of instruction is to be organized, and it is expected that the new lodge will receive its dispensation not later than July. Sixty Master Masons have signified their desire to form such a lodge in Glendale, according to announcement made by Aubrey Artiss, secretary, in a circular letter inviting these Masons to be present tonight. The question of financing is to be disposed of at this meeting.

Leads Drive

NATHAN F. COOMBS, of Napa, Cal., department commander for the American Legion.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—California's leader this year among service men of the World War, State Commander Nathan F. Coombs of the American Legion, has appealed to the public of the state to join with the legion in raising California's share of the $5,000,000 endowment fund which will insure for all time the nation-wide legion service of care for the disabled and home finding for the orphaned children of the war.

"Co-operating with government agencies, but realizing that government machinery can never adequately reach into the home life and its problems without the aid of legion service, our aim is the complete restoration of the disabled man to a state of self support and independent manhood," declares Commander Coombs. "For the homeless orphans of service men we propose to locate a home, with relatives or with adopted parents, so that these children shall not suffer for home, love, care and proper education because of the sacrifice their fathers made.

"We feel that the legion is merely the agent of the American people in this work, and while every legionnaire will contribute according to his means, we are asking the whole public to aid in providing the financial backbone of this service."

COMMITTEE MEMBERS CALLED 'HAND PICKED'

Opposition to Activities and Reports Of Organization Made at Meeting Of Glendale Municipal League

That the citizens' committee of fifteen, now engaged in a survey of Glendale grade school conditions, has been "hand-picked by the school board," that it is not representative of the citizens as a whole and that the entire procedure of the committee and school board to date in planning a school bond issue is "out of order and illegal" was the contention of J. R. Grey, who led opposition to the proposed school bond issue before the Glendale Municipal league last night.

Mr. Grey, who was aided in his opposition by John Knox, R. S. Person, J. C. Sherer and others, charged that the school situation has been made "the football of real estate promotion," that land is being bought in the name of necessity for schools "at prices three and four times its worth and then allowed to grow up in weeds or be used for playground purposes."

He took issue with the school board and committee of fifteen in terming present frame school buildings in the city as temporary, declaring that structures that have stood and served for twenty years cannot be declared temporary just because new brick buildings are placed alongside of them. He particularly referred to the Columbus school where, he charged, a large, two-story frame structure, ample in every respect for school purposes, has been termed in the committee's reports as a temporary building.

Report Is Read

M. Walters, spokesman for the committee of fifteen, C. S. Dunning, a member of that committee, and Richardson D. White, superintendent of schools, outlined the projects proposed by the school board.

Mr. Walters was invited to explain the proposed school bond issue by President Harry V. Adams, who presided at the meeting. He read from the report previously submitted by the school board, declaring that over the entire city school facilites are by far inadequate to care for the number of children attending schools.

He had hardly commenced his talk when he was interrupted by an objector who said that the term "your committee" used by Mr. Walters in addressing the league, was incorrect. "It is the school board's committee, appointed by the board, not by a mass meeting of citizens, as the law requires," it was charged.

Bonding Situation

Mr. Walters was asked point blank who appointed him, by Mr. Person, one of the founders of the Municipal league. Mr. Walters explained that the committee was the outgrowth of a meeting of heads of Glendale organizations called by the school board. At the meeting twenty organizations that were invited failed to respond to roll call, he said. It was voted by those in attendance that the president of the school board should pick the committee, he said.

Before he rose to speak, the road had been strewn with thorns for Mr. Walters by J. C. Sherer, former city treasurer, who had spoken on "bonded indebtedness in general." The picture of Glendale laboring under the burden of a bonded indebtedness of approximately $2,000 for every taxpayer, was painted by Mr. Sherer. He predicted ruin throughout the whole country "unless cities discontinue their programs of extravagance."

Protests Heard

Chairman Adams forestalled any further interruption of Mr. Walters by announcing that time for thorough discussion of the whole school question would be given. Superintendent White followed Mr. Walters with a brief explanation of the bond issue and school conditions. He answered a great volley of questions shot at him by members of the league.

Mr. Grey opened by protesting the use of "your committee" by members of the committee of fifteen.

"That committee originated and was organized within the board of education, it represents nobody but the board," he said. "Its report is full of holes big enough to drive a Ford car through. I am tired of seeing the Glendale schools made the football of real estate promotion. Schools are not for the profit of a few but for educational purposes.

Charges Are Hurled

"Members of this committee have been hand-picked, one of them is subdivider of a tract now seeking a school, another is representing the contracting interests, one is a close relative of a school principal, and so on down the list. What chance had the people for fair play? Further than this, there is attached to the committee the architect who does all the school work."

Mr. Grey urged segregation of the different school issues included in the present plan for expansion, predicting defeat for the entire program if it is placed before the voters in a lump sum.

"With the items segregated, the real needs of the schools will be furnished. Otherwise the whole thing is destined for certain defeat," he said. "When the school board comes forward with a clear-cut proposition, asking for relief where relief is actually

GREAT TOURIST RUSH

Southern California stands on the threshold of the greatest summer tourist season it has ever experienced. William C. Garner, field secretary of the All Year Club of Southern California, is the authority for this statement. The huge Shrine gathering will bring a large number of visitors, but his prediction is not based upon this event.

The number of inquiries received by the club up to May 1 is 19 per cent in excess of the number received in the same period of 1923, which was the greatest summer tourist season Southern California ever enjoyed. Figures also show that the inquiries that come to the All Year club are a faithful index of the travel that may be expected. The volume of travel has been consistent with the volume of inquiries in past years.

Advertsiing of the All Year club embraces all of Southern California and is not for any particular section or city. Glendale will benefit from this advertising equally with other cities. The people are coming. Every citizen of Glendale should consider himself a committee of one to help entertain the visitors, and in addition there should be some concerted effort on the part of the community to welcome the tourists and entertain them hospitably. Of course, a great many of those who are coming will visit relatives and friends, who will see that they are entertained, but there will be a large army of tourists who will not be entertained in homes. It is these people we should endeavor to reach and to whom we should be hospitable.

The attractions of Southern California, including our climate and our diversified scenery, are in most cases sufficient to cause visitors to want to remain or to come back again. But, where the people are friendly and cordial and where there is sociability in the air, the attraction of a place is greatly augmented. The possibilities of greatly increasing our population from the ranks of the summer visitors this year are unlimited. Are we prepared to take advantage of them?

BILLBOARD WAR IN NEVADA

Nevada is the latest state to take steps against the billboard. At the last session of the Legislature a law was passed looking to the improvement of the territory contiguous to the highways. By this law, advertising of all kinds is prohibited within the limits of an improved highway and within twenty feet of the center of an improved highway, except notices required to be posted by law and signs giving information and directions to the traveler, when such signs are approved by the state highway department. Also an annual fee of $5 is required to maintain a sign outside these limits in territory outside of a town or city.

It is pointed out that this law will put legitimate sign-posting organizations on a legal basis and do much to remove the agitation that has been directed against all forms of outdoor advertising which has been neglected and has become an eyesore.

But it is hard to see how the law will have much effect in reducing the number of billboards. In California the opposition is not to the quality of outdoor advertising, but to the quantity of it.

FIGHTING FOREST FIRES

The summer camping and picnicking season is here. Will the awful lessons we learned during the forest-fire seasons of past years and the facts brought to our attention during Conservation week be remembered? It is easier to fight forest fires now, before they are started, than when they are raging over the mountainsides. It is so much less expensive to prevent these destructive and disastrous conflagrations than it is to stop them after they are once started.

According to government reports, incendiarism, smoking and campfires were the three principal causes of man-caused fires within the national forests during 1924. All three could have been prevented by a little thought, a little care and responsibility on the part of those who enjoy the privileges of these reserves. Surely, those who go into the forests and mountains of California this summer have seen enough of destruction and have been sufficiently cautioned and warned that this year will see a great reduction in the amount of timber destroyed and land burned over as a result of carelessness on the part of campers and motorists.

WATCHING HINDENBURG

Europe has recovered from the first shock of the election of Hindenburg as president of Germany, according to news dispatches. There was a lot of speculation both in Europe and America as to what the war lord would do as head of the German republic, but the truth is, no one knows. Some, who are always looking for the worst, had the kaiser back in power and the German army ready to march into France the morning after the election. The new president has not the power to restore the monarchy, even if he should wish to do so, and it is unlikely that he can hamper the working of the Dawes plan. But the world has settled down to await the outcome and, needless to say, Europe is watching Hindenburg's every move.

WASTED EFFORT

An Arizona man, recently appointed federal attorney for the state, has, after six years of effort, been given an automobile license number that is identical with his house number, the number of his postoffice box and his telephone. This is a convenience for which anyone might wish. It would be well worth while if it could be had for the asking. But for an aim in life, a goal toward which to work, over a period of years, it is ridiculous. The same effort and concentration would have been sufficient to have memorized a thousand numbers. But then, men and women often work a lifetime for aims that in achievement are found to be trivial and futile.

If a man grins cheerfully, whatever the disaster, you don't know whether he is a confirmed Pollyanna or just a plain idiot.

Some people get all their happiness from the conviction that the misfortunes of their enemies are a divine punishment.

There always will be a use for insect powder while the world contains pretty men who know they are pretty.

It takes a quick-witted man to know when to say nothing.

OLD STUFF!

Daring to "Begin"

By DR. FRANK CRANE

"There needs," says Maurice Maeterlinck, "but so little to encourage beauty in our soul; so little to awaken the slumbering angels. There is no soul but is conscious of this. And yet must one of them 'begin.' Why not dare to be the one to 'begin'?"

What Maeterlinck says is true. Behind the mask we are all hungry for soul companionship. Yet we dare not "begin." We are afraid to speak the thoughts of the inner man. We cringe at the possibility of being thought sentimental.

We are queer little people, we who live in this year of our Lord, 1925. We are like shell fish ashamed to have it known there is a living, breathing spirit within the shell. We are proud of the shell and ashamed of the life within it.

When the Twentieth Century puffs itself up to hurl its most crushing anathema it chooses the epithet "sentimental."

Yet sentiment is the oil which keeps this hard, whirring, old Earth from grinding itself to pieces.

Sentiment is one of the things that makes a man a man instead of a blind pushing worm. The higher the type of man the more real sentiment he has, despite the intelligentsia speculations to the contrary.

Our sentiments and emotions are the roots of friendship. Cold intellectual discussion never binds two hearts together. Gifts of material things "wax poor when givers prove unkind." Our friendships are rooted only as deep as our mutual emotional experiences have gone.

The grass, with its surface roots, is luxuriant after the shower. But it browns and dies in the drought which leaves the oak tree with its deep-probing roots unchanged.

Friendships that are rooted no deeper than the pleasant "small talk" of idle hours wither as the grass under the first strain.

Friendships which are based on moments when each has opened his heart to the other and showed thoughts which "pass across his soul like great white birds," are rooted deep and like the oak survive.

It takes a brave man to dare to "begin"; to dare to lift a conversation to a high plane.

It is so easy, so safe, to indulge only in "small talk."

Here you will never be misunderstood, for there is nothing to misunderstand. You will never be touched to the quick by the revealed deficiency of one you have admired. You will never see the cold steel of a smile pierce the glowing loveliness of a new-born ideal. You will never hear misunderstanding laughter tearing the soft draperies of the "inner temple."

You will be safe. But you will miss the beautiful adventures which come only to those who dare to "begin."

The next time you are sitting silent with one whom you know well, with whom you have talked but of commonplaces, dare to "begin," dare to speak of those thoughts we all have as we lie at night or walk alone, thoughts on the great worthwhile things of life.

To do this is to start pushing deep the roots of friendship.

The Golden Rule ought to be amended. In addition to saying that you should do to others as you would that they should do unto you, it ought to be added "But do it first." Somebody must take the initiative.

Dare to "begin."

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNAIRD

CLARK KINNAIRD

Canon Donaldson, discerning dean of Westminster Abbey, lists what are to him the seven cardinal social sins of this wicked world of ours. They are, he says:

1. Politics without principles.
2. Wealth without work.
3. Pleasure without conscience.
4. Knowledge without character.
5. Commerce and industry without morality.
6. Science without humanity.
7. Worship without sacrifice.

And of these, says Canon Donaldson, the passion for the accumulation of riches at all costs, preferably without earning them, is a disease of the great mass of the British nation.

It is not without justice that Americans are called money-mad. But this disease, this passion for the accumulation of riches, preferably without earning them, imbues all of mankind, savage and civilized.

Let us pass over the question of whether it is a sin; for it may be a blessing. What is the reason for it? The mere desire to possess? To be powerful?

The answer is even simpler, it seems to me.

The human sees wealth as a release from work, from activity, from motion.

He doesn't understand, or forgets, that we exist physically, because our organism is the seat of constant motion; and if we are to exist intellectually it can only be by means of continual occupation—no matter with what, so long as it is some form of practical or mental activity.

Our nature is essentially restless in character; because life in all its infinite varieties consists in movement. We very soon get tired of nothing to do; it is intolerable boredom.

The "idle rich" are never idle for long.

Activity—doing something, if possible creating something—how fortunate it is that men cannot exist without that!

A man instinctively wants to use his strength to see, if he can, what effect it will produce.

From this point of view, those are happiest of all who are conscious of the power to produce works animated by some significant purpose; it gives a higher kind of interest to the whole of their life.

Today's Poem

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN

So many things there might have been,
Had our dear child not died.
We count them up and call them o'er,
We weigh the less against the more,—
The joy she never knew or shared,
The bitter woes forever spared,
The dangers turned aside,
Heaven's full security,—and then
Perplexed we sigh,—all might have been.

We might have seen her sweet cheeks glow
With love's own happy bloom,
Her eyes with maiden gladness full,
Finding the whole world beautiful;
We might have seen the joy once fail,
The dear face sadden and grow pale,
The smiles fade into gloom,
Love's sun grow dim and sink again,—
Either of these it might have been.

We might have seen her with the crown
Of wifehood on her head,
A queen of home's fair sovereignties,
With little children at her knees;
Or, broken-hearted and alone,
Bereft and widowed of her own,
Mourning beside her dead,—
This thing, or that, beyond our ken,
It might have been, it might have been.

There is no need of question now,
No doubts or risks or fears;
Safe folded in the eternal care,
Grown fairer each day and more fair,
With radiance in the clear young eyes
Which in cool depths of Paradise
Look without strain of tears,
Reading the Lord's intent, and then
Smiling to think what might have been.

We, too, will smile, O dearest child!
Our dull souls may not know
The deeper things hidden from mortal sense.
Which feed thy heavenly confidence,
On this one sure thought can we rest,
That God has chosen for thee the best,
Or else it were not so;
He called thee back to heaven again
Because He knew what might have been.

—Susan Coolidge.

ADVENTISTS HOLD SUNDAY SERVICES

Last Of Series Of Sabbath Preachments Given By Eagle Rock Pastor

The concluding service of the series of special Sunday night meetings which have been in progress in the Seventh-day Adventists church in Eagle Rock, was conducted Sunday night, by the pastor, Rev. J. W. McComas. His theme was "Standing by the Cross." The speaker drew a contrast between the cost of being a follower of Christ at the time when both the Jews and the world rejected Him, and its cost today, when Christianity has become a popular religion. He said:

"When Jesus began his ministry he healed the sick and did everything for the uplifting of humanity; but the longer he continued his work the more the church hated Him; until finally they nailed Him to the cross. The Roman law pronounced a curse upon the one who was put to death in this way; and to make His crucifixion more severe and to bring a greater curse upon His name, so that it would be harder for His followers, the Jews had Christ put between two others who were crucified with him. Thus they sought to bury him under a triple curse. But though He was rejected by His people and despised by the world, as Isaiah had prophesied that he would be, yet in the face of all this opposition Christ declared that he would build a church, that He would establish it upon a rock, and the gates of hell should not prevail against it.

Religion Despised

"It was no light thing in the days of Christ for an individual to renounce the habits and customs of the world and identify himself or herself with a religion that was universally despised and opposed. Society at that day was about as far from Christianity, morally, as it could be. Outside the Jews, the whole world was heathen. And the gospel of Christ made no compromise with sin of any kind, or with the errors of the times. Today we live in an age of compromise, and people are taken into the church without much reference to their belief.

"But it was different in the days when Paul wrote to the Galatian church, 'Though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed.' Those who embraced Christianity in that age found themselves shut out from business and ostracised by society.

"A Christian wife can live with an unbelieving husband today, but at that time the unbeliever was a heathen, and Christianity and heathenism could not exist in the home.

Foresight of Christ

"Christ knew what his followers would have to meet, so he told them plainly that such as were not willing to forsake father or mother, husband or wife or children, houses and lands could not be his disciples. It meant untold suffering. They know something about it today in heathen lands, where individuals accept Christ in the face of the opposition of anti-Christian relatives and society. But here, in this land of liberty, where Christianity has become popular, there are men and women, many of them, who are not willing to make even the little sacrifice required to step out and identify themselves with those who keep the commandments of God and the faith of Jesus.

"The women of this civilized land should be the most willing of all to stand by the cross, since Christianity has rescued them from slavery. The worship of the 'great goddess Diana," about which we are told in Acts 19, illustrates the degradation to which womankind was subjected under the ancient heathen religions; for we are told that in the worship of that heathen deity a girl was required to sacrifice her virtue. The United States is the only country in the world where women have been accorded equality with men; and it is the result of Christianity. Take the Bible out of America and woman would again be made a slave, as she is where the Bible is not known."

NOTED MEN UNITE FOR RUBBER DEAL

Firestone, Ford, Edison Join Forces To Give America Own Rubber Supply

For several years Harvey S. Firestone, president of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., has been active in the work of interesting Americans to produce their own rubber supply in America.

About two years ago Mr. Firestone interested the government through the department of commerce, to make a study of the rubber tree growing possibilities in the United States. An appropriation was made by Congress for testing soil and climatic conditions that would favor rubber tree growing.

When it is considered that approximately 80 per cent of the world's supply of rubber is grown in British possessions and that America consumes 75 per cent, it becomes immediately apparent that as a nation we must have our own source of rubber supply.

The British restriction act has been effective in curtailing production and also price fixing, so that rubber has advanced since this restriction act became operative about 200 per cent and indications point to further advances.

"Rubber restrictions this year," Mr. Firestone stated, "will cost the American car owners at least $100,000,000. Every ten cent advance in crude rubber means an additional burden of about $75,000,000 loaded upon the American motorists and truck owners."

Three Great Minds

Three great minds are engaged in this trade war to save millions of dollars yearly to all users of rubber and those who are directly affected by higher prices for rubber.

Harvey S. Firestone, Henry Ford and Thomas Edison are united to bring about relief from unwarranted prices for crude rubber which have advanced from 14 per cent when the restrictive act became operative until—through regular increases—about 200 per cent advances have become effective.

During a recent conference of the three master minds, Edison made some important suggestions regarding new processes of extraction of the latex or sap, from the rubber trees now under cultivation. It is the opinion of Mr. Edison that the rubber latex can be extracted more easily and at less cost than now in vogue.

Mr. Firestone is determined that America shall produce rubber and that fair prices for crude rubber shall obtain.

REBUILDING CAR HOLLAND'S FORTE

Glendale Firm Claims Ability To Make Auto As Good As When Purchased

Years have come and gone since automobiles have become a necessity, and each day the wear on a car and increased overhead of upkeep becomes tremendous.

Repair shops have made an effort to keep the car running but the expense of continuous repairing has become monotonous and costly.

Manufacture of cars has reached the point where the car owner no longer considers this continuous repairing but has his car rebuilt to the same efficiency as the day of its purchase. Remanufacturing is now possible in Glendale at the plant of Edward Holland Company, Inc., 341 West Colorado boulevard. "With the plant equipped with the same machinery that is necessary in the building of new cars they are able to completely rebuild a car as good as new," states Mr. Holland. The public is fast becoming acquainted with our plant and service which we are able to give. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to visit his plant at 341 West Colorado and watch his new Precise machine operate.

WARNING ISSUED OWNERS OF DOGS

Roaming Canines At Large To Be Picked Up By City Poundmaster

An ultimatum was delivered today to owners of dogs in Glendale that prosecution will be started immediately in every case where dogs are permitted to roam at large. Chief of Police John D. Fraser, declaring that conditions here have now reached "a terrible state," issued general orders to all patrolmen to report all dogs roaming in streets and on lawns to Poundmaster Deerr. Warrants for the arrest of the owners will be issued by Police Judge F. H. Lowe, he said.

Ordinance No. 658, adopted in 1922, provides that all dogs within the city limits must be kept within enclosures. Violation of the ordinance carries a fine of $100 or imprisonment for fifty days in the county jail or both.

"During the past few months I have had hundreds of letters from property owners and thousands of telephone calls from irate citizens complaining of conditions," said Chief Fraser. "One man who came to Glendale from the east has complained both to Mayor MacBain and myself that he found every condition ideal here except that dogs romped over his flower beds, woke him up at night by running across his porch, and committed depredations of all kinds.

"The fact that dogs are licensed has nothing to do with the case. Even licensed dogs are required to be kept in enclosures or tied up. I estimate there are 5000 dogs in Glendale. Hundreds of them are tearing up lawns and shrubbery, biting persons, and creating general nuisances with noise and depredations. It has got to stop."

Rainfall Continues

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—A new record for May precipitation in Northern California was the prospect today, as rain which started falling last Saturday night continued to fall intermittently over the entire state from the Tehachapi north.

The center of the disturbance was near Eureka, and the outlook was for a continued downpour.

Damage to hay crops south of San Francisco was a possibility, especially in the Salinas valley, where considerable hay had been cut.

No damage was reported from the Sonoma valley, where a heavy cherry crop was in readiness for harvesting.

Growing grain might be harmed should the rainfall continue much longer, according to Major E. H. Bowie, weather forecaster here.

The downpour was heaviest along the coast.

Records for the last twenty-four hours follow: Fresno, a trace; Red Bluff, .50 of an inch; Sacramento, .06; San Francisco, .44; San Jose, .02; Chico, .30; Colusa, .36; Merced, .62; Santa Rosa, .57, and Stockton, .14.

Eureka, which holds the record for heavy precipitation this season, had only a trace of rainfall last night, according to weather bureau reports.

We want you to know that we appreciate your interest and the splendid way in which you gave space to the events of the Eisteddfod week. Thompson Brothers laid 1000 feet of sewer in April on section No. 1 and 855 feet on section No. 3. C. E. Green, contractor in charge of the work on section No. 2, laid 934 feet in April. Work on section No. 3 is progressing more rapidly than in the other two because of better working conditions.

A total of 4784 feet has been finished of a total of 15,286.19 feet to be completed in section No. 1; 3724 feet of a total of 15,680.25 feet in section No. 2, and 5501 feet of a total of 17,676.83 feet in section No. 3.

H. V. Adams At Home From Trip To Midwest

Financial and business conditions in the middle west have reached rock bottom and will soon be on the upward trend, according to the belief of H. V. Adams, Glendale banker, who just returned from a hurried trip to Cleveland, Ohio.

"People throughout middle western states are highly optimistic over the outlook for a prosperous summer and fall," Mr. Adams said. "It is hardly possible that any boom is due to hit the country. On the contrary the upward trend, expected so confidently, will probably be of a slow, steady nature.

"Drought in mid-western states has caused some concern among the farmers. It was raining in three states, Iowa, Nebraska and Wyoming, however, this week, and the hearts of the farmers were filled with joy and happy anticipation."

Mr. Adams was called to Cleveland to testify in a federal court case. He left Glendale Saturday afternoon, May 2, arriving back Sunday night at 9:30 o'clock. Mr. Adams made the trip hurriedly because of business that awaited him at the Glendale Savings bank, where he is escrow officer. He made only one stop-over of half a day to visit friends at Des Moines, Iowa, his former home.

Girl, 18, Takes Life When Man Jilts Her

"NERVES" WARN OF "DANGER AHEAD!"

As the screeching siren warns of the oncoming ambulance, so do neuritis, nerve pains, neuralgia give warning of approaching danger. Slowly and surely the grim tragedy of nervous breakdown stalks malignantly towards many who suffer at first only the sharp, darting pains which signal that the nerves are in trouble.

Many in vain have sought relief with the most approved remedies heretofore known to science. It remained for an eminent San Francisco physician to discover in the science of Homeopathy the basis of what has since proved to be an effective treatment for neuritis, neuralgia, nerve pains and other conditions of "nerves."

This remarkable discovery is now available and is incorporated in what are now known as Eopa Neuritis Tablets. These harmless tablets contain no narcotics or bromides, and their action is to give safe, sure relief and to tone up and revitalize the entire nervous system. At the very first suggestion of "nerves," gain relief with Eopa Neuritis Tablets. Your druggist will recommend them.

Ahlmann Drug Co., Brand at Harvard, will supply you. Mail orders filled.—Advertisement.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

A great birthday cake on the marquise of Pendroy's department store entrance, at Brand boulevard and Harvard street, calls attention to that institution's third anniversary.

Only three short years and yet what great progress has been made, not alone in merchandising, but the city as well. Why, half the people residing here today were not residents of Glendale three years ago!

Pendroy's for a time occupied the largest business block in the city. Now there are several buildings devoted to hotels, banking quarters and offices. And more are going to be built shortly.

Glendale has become a large city over night, as it were. Like Hollywood and Long Beach this particular section of the metropolitan area has shot forward at even a more amazing rate in proportion to these larger sections. And gradually this city is forging into the front ranks of Southland cities in the building lists.

May provides an opportunity for the builders of this community. If the present pace of permits being issued for new structures continues, the million mark may be reached in the sixteen working days remaining.

Glendale needs set a goal and attain it—that's all.

By the way, folks, there are going to be upwards a quarter of a million tourists in this neck of the woods during the next few months. Included in the crowd are many friends of yours, no doubt.

Now it is the simplest thing to have these people as your guests at a dinner at your home here, or any one of the many good restaurants, and upon such occasions do not fail to impress them with the opportunities, beauties and pleasant surroundings to be found here.

Hospitality necessarily doesn't mean that these visitors themselves will become residents of Glendale in the near future, but it does promote friendship and feeling toward the community which is better boosting than can be written on paper.

The real estate market is becoming quite active. People have money to invest. And in this week's observation of Better Homes week throughout the nation the psychological moment for real estate brokers in offering "better homes" is ripe.

Use the classified columns of The Glendale Evening News for property in this vicinity. Everyone reads this newspaper's want ad section, and recommends it, you would judge from the responses received by advertisers.

It is the great medium of exchange, not alone for small advertisers, but those desiring display, as well.

CADDELL AGENCY BOUGHT BY TRIO

M. Pearson, Alfred M. Land, Daniel Campbell, Jr., Members Of Firm

Daniel Campbell, Jr., son of Daniel Campbell, vice-president of the Community Savings & Commercial bank; Alfred M. Land and Marshall Pearson, teller of the First National bank in Glendale, today were completing an inventory of the stock and assets of the John G. Caddell Ford agency following their purchase of the organization.

Land, for the past four years has been sales manager of the company in Glendale and Eagle Rock. The transaction was for a consideration of $60,000, it is understood. The Caddell company was launched in January, 1924.

Caddell will leave this summer for Colorado, where he will join his father in the development of coal mining property on which $50,000 worth of development work has already been done. Caddell will make his headquarters in Denver, where he will have charge of sales.

Plan No Change

The Caddell company, located at South Brand boulevard and San Fernando road, has built up a substantial business since Caddell came to Glendale as Ford dealer.

The Caddell mining interests, he said today, are valued at $225,000, which include development work already done, the mine, its equipment and rolling stock. The property has been in the possession of the family for some time.

The new owners assumed possession of the local agency on May 1 and since that time have been engaged in taking the inventory. The transaction covered the stock of cars and merchandise on hand, lease contracts and other assets of the company.

No changes will be made in the policy of the company, Campbell said today, and for the present no additions are planned. The same sales organization will remain intact. The firm will be known as Campbell, Land, Pearson, Inc.

NEWS OF STAGE AND SCREEN

VIEWS AND PREVIEWS—NEWS NOTES FROM STUDIOS

Compiled By Members of The Glendale Evening News Staff

Flaming Tale

Actor has narrow escape when roof falls on him in "Fighting the Flames" at Glendale Theatre.

Frankie Darrow, the Baby Barrymore of the screen, does the most notable work of his short but remarkable film career in "Fighting the Flames," a Columbia picture that shows for the last times tonight at the Glendale theatre. In this picture he plays a ragged, homeless street urchin who becomes the pal of William Haines, the heroic young fireman, who has been forbidden by his father to return home until he can make a man of himself.

This is the third film in which this remarkable boy has appeared with the same producer. With him in the cast are William Haines, Dorothy Devore, Charlie Murray, Sheldon Lewis, David Torrence, Max Davidson and William Welsh.

Welsh received a narrow escape from serious injury while making "Fighting the Flames." He was portraying the part of a fireman, and was required to go into a blazing building to effect the rescue of the occupants. During the scene in the burning room the supports collapsed and the blazing ceiling fell squarely on the actor.

Only the quick action of Haines and Director Eason saved Welsh from serious burns.

GRADE CROSSING PETITION READY

Planning Commission Takes Formal Action; Present To Council Next

Draft of a petition to be offered to the State Railroad commission jointly by Glendale and Los Angeles, asking a survey of conditions at Los Feliz road and the Southern Pacific tracks, was approved last night by the Glendale Planning commission and will be submitted on Thursday to the City Council for approval.

The petition does not set forth recommendations of the two cities for the ultimate method by which a separation of grades should be obtained. The two cities and the planning commissions of both municipalities intend to present arguments for a general lowering of grade of the Southern Pacific tracks within the Glendale city limits and the construction of overhead crossings when a hearing is called before the State Railroad commission, if the survey bears out the contentions of City Engineer, J. F. Johannsen. He recently completed a profile map showing the present grade and the proposed reduced grade of the railroad.

Costs Are Fixed

A recent petition filed with the State Railroad commission by the Los Angeles County Grade Crossing commission asks also for a survey by the state body, to be followed at the hearing with recommendations for obtaining of a grade separation by construction of a subway, the cost to be distributed between Los Angeles, Glendale and the Southern Pacific Co. Such a method, it is estimated, would cost nearly $500,000 after damages had been paid to owners on Los Feliz road whose property would be left far above traffic between San Fernando road and a similar distance south of the Southern Pacific tracks.

Los Angeles has provided funds through a recent bond issue, but Glendale would refuse to pay its pro-rated share of the subway construction and would hold up the entire procedure unless lowering of the Southern Pacific grade is proved impractical, it was declared.

Separate Survey

Members of the City Planning commission said last night they will take steps to have a separate survey made to determine the practicability of Johannsen's plan, and will present the findings to the railroad commission in support of the stand taken by Glendale and Los Angeles.

Approval of the joint petition asking the survey is a direct split between the grade crossing commission and the two municipalities. It was preceded by a series of conferences extending over a period of several weeks during which an effort was made to reach a final agreement over the method of grade separation.

GATEWAY OFFERS WESTERN DRAMA

Zane Grey's 'Code Of West' Is Feature Attraction On Screen Today

One of the few spots in the United States which seldom is penetrated is the Tonto Basin, in Arizona, where William K. Howard completed filming Zane Grey's "Code of the West," showing for the last times today at the Gateway theatre.

The Tonto Basin country was selected as the logical location for this picture by Mr. Grey himself, not alone because of its primitive wilderness and rugged, picturesque landscape, but because the action of his story is laid there.

The trip of the "Code of the West" company into this wilderness was one of the most difficult ever made by a motion picture outfit. All supplies were hauled into the location by pack horses, over miles of rocky trail. The nearest town, Payson, contained a population of 310 persons. Beyond that there was nothing except a few ranch houses for more than 260 miles.

Primitive Country

So primitive was the country that for a number of scenes in the picture it was necessary to build roads and construct bridges in order to transport the necessary equipment to the various location points of filming.

According to Mr. Grey, the story of "Code of the West" is based entirely on facts and actual incidents which happened in Payson and the immediate vicinity. The plot revolves around the romance of a cowboy and a Broadway flapper. Comedy, redblooded action, jazz and typical Zane Grey thrills sweep through the production, reaching the climax in a forest fire.

The cast includes Owen Moore, Constance Bennett, Mabel Ballin, Charles Ogle and David Butler.

SOPHIE WELCOMED WITH 'HOT' SONGS

'Queen Of Syncopation' Gets Big Hand Opening Night At Keith's

If you have to starve for weeks unfasten the threadbare purse strings and rake up the wherewith and take a three-hour sojourn at the Orpheum this week.

There was a big welcome for Sophie Tucker last night—with flowers galore—when she sang her "hot" songs with that pep that has won for her the sobriquet of "queen of syncopation." Her act this time has a wee bit of sentimentality in it, which seems to please everyone. Ted Shapiro and Jack Carroll, pianists, add a lot to Sophie's act.

One of the most unique and unusual dance acts that has ever graced the Orpheum boards is Nitza Vernille and company in "Wonderland." In this act, beautifully and lavishly costumed, is found most every type of dancing. Miss Vernille executes her dances with superb grace and charm, while John Walsh assists her most ably. The Misses Evans and Stevens enhance "Wonderland" with their grotesque and jazz dancing.

Mazie Clifton and Billie De Rex, late features of the "Greenwich Village Follies," made a big hit with their Bowery slapstick dancing and kidding. Their takeoff on grand opera is a "wow." The Giersdorf sisters, Irene, Elvira and Rae, deserve a much better place on the bill than the final call. With their orchestra they win a big hand.

Russell and Pierce, billed as Actrometians, move fast and furious to everyone's satisfaction, while the four sensational Wiltons open the show with their acrobatics. Robert Emmett Keane and Claire Whitney are held over for a second week, in a brand new play, filled with clever lines, called "The Gossipy Sex."

MONTROSE NOTES

MONTROSE, May 12.—A wire received at Mead's service station told of an accident to a car driven by Ed Sutter of Montrose. Mr. Sutter, at the time of the accident, was accompanied by Ed Winfield, Leigh Green and G. Patrolla, returning from a trip into the Bakersfield country. On the Ridge route the car turned turtle, burying the occupants beneath it. Two of the injured men are in the San Joaquin valley hospital, the others in the Bakersfield hospital. It is feared that Mr. Sutter is suffering from a punctured lung. An X-ray was to have been taken of his injuries.

There are still tickets available for the dance to be given Thursday night at the Oakmont Country club for the benefit of the Angeles Forest Protective association, whose members are planning to take every precaution this summer to prevent forest fires. Proceeds from the dance will be used toward this end. This will be the last dance given by the association before beginning its summer's work.

Double Bill

Cosmo theatre, Brand boulevard and Windsor road, is showing a double bill: Johnny Walker in "Fashionable Fakers" and a comedy feature, "The Battling Orioles". "The Battling Orioles," the new Hal Roach Pathe comedy, contains, in its six reels of fun, more good sense and philosophy of keeping young than can be found in half the books, treatises or systems yet published or invented. It is an hilarious farce that tells of the rejuvenation of an old-time baseball team who, once upon a time, were the unholy terrors of the diamond.

Johnnie Walker has never played two roles alike in his whole brilliant career, and yet each characterization that he has developed has served to elevate his lofty position as a wholesome, winning screen personality. As a caballero in "Captain Fly-by-Night," a costume play of early California, he was a bravado with plenty of swank and a breezy air that swept all before it. With this bold, bad man, listed on his record of character achievement, was a meek bad boy in "Over the Mill," a bold good man in "The Fourth Musketeer," and now, completing the cycle, a meek good man in "Fashionable Fakers." According to critics, it is Walker at his best.

DRAMATIC SCENE CRUX OF 'MANNA'

Vision Of Christ To Doubting Veterans Impressive In Dobinson Producton

One of the wonderful episodes in "Manna", Olga Printzlau's play which opened last night with a Dobinson Players cast at Philharmonic auditorium, Los Angeles, for a two week run, is a vision scene.

Peter Linden, the hero, who has told by the surgeons that he is hopelessly paralyzed and must spend the balance of his life between his bed and a wheel chair, has suffered a great deal. He has lost his sweetheart; or so he is led to believe. But he persists in believing that everything is for the best. And he keeps on in his self-appointed task of dropping Bible texts—manna—out of the hospital window.

One night "Nellie" O'Brien, the scoffer, wakes up, suffering great pain and for the first time shows that faith is beginning to dawn for him, too. He asks Peter to read the Bible. When he has dropped asleep and Peter turns out his light, the vision of Christ appears.

Cleverly Handled

Miss Printzlau has cleverly left in doubt the audience as to whether or not it is a dream or a vision. But the outline of the Savior, faintly seen in a flickering light that comes and goes, and which seems to throw a movement like the waves of the sea about the figure's feet, is tremendously effective.

And when the figure begins to speak, bidding Peter Linden to be of good cheer, to arise and walk, the feeling of solemnity and reverence is heightened. For Jerome Collamore, who plays "The Man From The Book"—Christ—has a melodious and well trained voice, and invests his part with simplicity and dignity.

Mr. Collamore has had much experience. He has been with Walter Hampden for several seasons and has been prominently connected with the professional stage in Los Angeles.

REALIZES SPEED DREAM

BAKERSFIELD, May 12.—Seven years ago Labor day, "Indian" Paul Derkum staged his first race at the fair grounds here—a motorcycle marathon. Today he is happy to say his dream of the fastest dirt speedway in America has come true at the old race track, Little Frankie Lockhart of Los Angeles piloting a Miller special yesterday afternoon to victory in a twenty-five-mile dust-throwing contest. Lockhart did a mile in 39:48 seconds, bettering the A. A. A. dirt track record of 42:28 by Tommy Milton at Syracuse two years ago.

SAN BERNARDINO, May 12.—Six cases of drunkenness is the sum total evidence in a week of muckraking here among high school students to verify charges of bootlegging, gambling and dope peddling, the officials finding students very reticent about telling of their misdeeds so loudly heralded during Boys' week. Three pupils have been expelled during the term for drinking, according to Principal Ira W. Kibby of the high school.

PAPERS CONSOLIDATE

ANAHEIM, May 12.—The Anaheim Bulletin, anti-klan daily, has purchased the Orange county Plaindealer for $35,000, and Rev. J. A. Geissinger has dropped his $90,000 libel suit against the latter. Former owners of the Plaindealer, said to have been aligned with the Ku Klux Klan, have agreed to refrain from entering the Orange county field for fifteen years; merchants have agreed to support only the Bulletin for five years, and Rev. Leon H. Myers, Klan leader, is recovering from a sound thrashing administered by A. S. Knott, all as the result of the hooded order's adventure into local politics here.

needed, bonds will be voted, but not until then."

John Knox wanted to know from Superintendent White why new sites were being bought; why, with additions to present schools, sites to be used some time in the future should be purchased? Mr. Walters objected to asking the school superintendent this question.

"Why didn't you ask me?" he asked.

"Because," came back Mr. Knox, "in your talk, you stopped every few seconds to ask Mr. White for information yourself. I naturally supposed he was the one who knew the answer."

Chairman Adams rapped for order on this and several other occasions. Others who spoke included G. H. Wende, who opposed the bonds, W. A. Goss and others.

Will Meet Later

Mr. Walters, in conclusion, suggested a committee from the Municipal league to make an investigation of school conditions.

"That would be just as illegal as the acts of the committee of fifteen," Mr. Grey interposed. "The law requires a mass meeting of citizens call a school bond election and this has not been the case."

On motion of James Everington, sr., the session adjourned to meet in two weeks when further discussion of the school question will be in order. The meeting will be called specially for this purpose, Chairman Adams said. The meeting last night was at the Wilson Intermediate school.

FIRE JUMPS BOND ISSUE UP $12,000

School Committee Of Fifteen Estimates Doran Street Blaze Damages

Destruction of the Doran street elementary school by fire on Saturday night will require an increase in the proposed bond issue for elementary and intermediate school purposes of $12,000, members of the special committee of fifteen estimated today. The committee of fifteen, selected by the Board of Education to complete a survey of school needs will make its final recommendations at a meeting to be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the Board of Education offices.

The original plans of the Board of Education was to rebuild the main center section of eight classrooms and offices at the Doran street school. That plan, which included $68,000 for the rebuilding of the school, was included in the proposed bond issue that was defeated several months ago.

Amount Reduced

The committee of fifteen, after a survey of conditions last Friday, cut the original request by $20,000 to $48,000, which provided only for four new classrooms and equipment. Now the entire center section must be rebuilt, committeemen say, at the original estimated cost of $68,000. The school will receive $8000 insurance on the building, leaving an additional $12,000 to be included in the bond issue, making total requests to be recommended tonight $1,237,000.

Classes were resumed at the Doran street school this morning, with the students attending in half-day periods in two divisions. A four-room brick building and a small bungalow classroom are being used.

The HOUSE Of The ARROW

A SERIAL STORY WRITTEN BY A. E. W. MASON

Protected By The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

"He is a tall, shambling fellow with a shock of grey hair standing up like wires above a narrow forehead and a pair of wild eyes. He made me think of a marionette whose limbs have not been properly strung. I should imagine that he was rather extravagant and emotional. He kept twitching at his moustache with very long, tobacco-stained fingers. The sort of man who might go off at the deep end at any moment."

Mr. Haslitt smiled.

"That's just what I thought."

"Is he giving you any trouble?' asked Jim.

"Not yet," said Mr. Haslitt. "But Mrs. Harlowe is dead, and I think it very likely that he will. Did he play at the tables?"

"Yes, rather high," said Jim. "I suppose that he lived with Mrs. Harlowe."

"I suppose so," said Mr. Haslitt, and he sat for a little while in silence. Then: "It's a pity you didn't see Betty Harlowe. I stopped at Dijon once on my way to the south of France five years ago when Simon Harlowe, the husband, was alive. Betty was then a long-legged slip of a girl in black silk stockings, with a pale, clear face and dark hair and big eyes—rather beautiful." Mr. Haslitt moved in his chair uncomfortably. That old house with its great garden of chestnuts and sycamores and that girl alone in it with an aggrieved and half-crazed man thinking out awkwardness for her—Mr. Haslitt did not like the picture!

"Jim," he said suddenly. "Could you arrange your work so that you could get away at short notice, if it becomes advisable?"

Jim looked up in surprise. Excursions and alarms, as the old stage directions have it, were not recognized as a rule by the firm of Frobisher & Haslitt. If its furniture was dingy, its methods were stately; clients might be urgent, but haste and hurry were words for which the firm had no use. No doubt, somewhere round the corner, there would be an attorney who understood them. Yet here was Mr. Haslitt himself, with his white hair and his curious round face, half-babyish, half-supremely intelligent, actually advocating that his junior partner should be prepared to skip to the Continent at a word.

"No doubt I could," said Jim, and Mr. Haslitt looked him over with approbation.

Jim Frobisher had an unusual quality of which his acquaintances, even his friends, knew only the outward signs. He was a solitary person. Very few people up till now had mattered to him at all, and even those he could do without. It was his passion to feel that his life and the means of his life did not depend upon the purchased skill of other people; and he had spent the spare months of his life in the fulfilment of his passion. A half-decked sailing boat which one man could handle, an ice-axe, a rifle, an inexhaustible volume or two like "The Ring and the Book"—these with the stars and his own thoughts had been his companions on many lonely expeditions; and in consequence he had acquired a queer little look of aloofness which made him at once noticeable among his fellows. A misleading look, since it encouraged a confidence for which there might not be sufficient justification. It was just this look which persuaded Mr. Haslitt now. "This is the very man to deal with creatures like Boris Waberski," he thought, but he did not say so aloud.

What he did say was:

"It may not be necessary after all. Betty Harlowe has a French lawyer. No doubt he is adequate. Besides—" and he smiled as he recollected a phrase in Waberski's second letter—"Betty seems very capable of looking after herself. We shall see."

He went back to his own office, and for a week he heard no more from Dijon. His anxiety, indeed, was almost forgotten when suddenly startling news arrived and by the most unexpected channel.

Jim Frobisher brought it. He broke into Mr. Haslitt's office at the sacred moment when the senior partner was dictating to a clerk the answers to his morning letters.

"Sir!" cried Jim, and stopped short at the sight of the clerk. Mr. Haslitt took a quick look at his young partner's face and said:

"We will resume these answers, Godfrey, later on."

The clerk took his shorthand notebook out of the room, and Mr. Haslitt turned to Jim Frobisher.

"Now, what's your bad news, Jim?"

Jim blurted it out.

"Waberski accuses Betty Harlowe of murder."

"What?"

Mr. Haslitt sprang to his feet. Jim Frobisher could not have said whether incredulity or anger had the upper hand with the old man, the one so creased his forehead, the other so blazed in his eyes.

"Little Betty Harlowe!" he said in a wondering voice.

"Yes. Waberski has laid a formal charge with the prefect of police at Dijon. He accuses Betty of poisoning Mrs. Harlowe on the night of April 27."

"But Betty's not arrested?" Mr. Haslitt exclaimed.

"No, but she's under surveillance."

Mr. Haslitt sat heavily down in his arm-chair at his table. Extravagant! Uncontrolled! These were very mild epithets for Boris Waberski. Here was a devilish malignity at work in the rogue, a passion for revenge just as mean as could be imagined.

"How do you know all this, Jim?" he asked suddenly.

"I have had a letter this morning from Dijon."

"You?" exclaimed Mr. Haslitt, and the question caught hold of Jim Frobisher and plunged him, too, among perplexities. In the first shock of the news, the monstrous fact of the accusation had driven everything else out of his head. Now he asked himself why, after all, had the news come to him and not to the partner who had the Harlowe estate in his charge.

"Yes, it is strange," he replied. "And here's another queer thing. The letter doesn't come from Betty Harlowe, but from a friend, a companion of hers, Ann Upcott."

Mr. Haslitt was a little relieved.

"Betty had a friend with her then? That's a good thing." He reached out his hand across the table. "Let me read the letter, Jim."

Frobisher had been carrying it in his hand, and he gave it now to Jeremy Haslitt. It was a letter of many sheets, and Jeremy let the edges slip and flicker under the ball of his thumb.

"Have I got to read all this?" he said ruefully, and he set himself to his task. Boris Waberski had first of all, accused Betty to her face. Betty had contemptuously refused to answer the charge, and Waberski had gone straight off to the prefect of police. He had returned in an hour's time, wildly gesticulating and talking aloud to himself. He had actually asked Ann Upcott to back him up. Then he had packed his bags and retired to a hotel in the town. The story was set out in detail, with quotations from Waberski's violent, crazy talk; and as the old man read, Jim Frobisher became more and more uneasy, more and more troubled.

UNCLE WIGGILY

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE OLD NEST

Blown from a tree by the high wind, the old nest lay on the ground, not far from Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow. It looked like nothing more than a bunch of tiny twigs when Nipper and Skipper, two of the bunny gentleman's new little rabbit children, saw the old nest on the ground.

"Maybe it's a ball and we can play with it!" cried Nipper.

"Or kick it!" added Skipper.

But when they turned the nest over and saw that it was made of soft feathers and bits of curling hair from the tails of horses, woven in with fluffy grass, the rabbit boys laughed and Nipper said:

"That is no good for a ball. It's too soft!"

"Let's set it on fire!" proposed Skipper. "It will burn fine!"

But just then Uncle Wiggily hopped out of his bungalow, and heard what the rabbit boys said.

"It isn't safe for such little chaps as you to play with fire," spoke the bunny-gentleman, twinkling his pink nose. "Besides, why do you want to burn the old nest?"

"It isn't any good," answered Skipper, jumping about.

"Perhaps it may be," said Uncle Wiggily, picking it up in his paw. "I will put it on the back stoop. Who knows but what some poor bird may be glad to find it? The nest is almost as good as it was last year, when little birds, without any feathers on, nestled down in the soft grass the nest is lined with. I'll save the old nest."

Skipper and Nipper were a little disappointed that they couldn't make a bonfire, but they had learned to know that Uncle Wiggily, their new daddy, had a reason for what he said and did.

"Come on, little rabbit boys," called Mr. Longears to them. "We'll go hopping over the fields and through the woods and maybe we can find an adventure. That will be more fun than burning a last year's bird nest."

Skipper and Nipper thought so, too, so they ran along with their new daddy. Through the green forest they hopped. They heard the birds singing in the trees and the wind was playing sweet music on the leaves. But soon, amid the music, a sad voice was heard saying:

"Oh, dear! I don't know what we are going to do! With my sore wing I cannot fly much and help you build a nest, Rob. And without a nest in which to lay my eggs we can have no little birds hatch out. It is very sad!"

"Cheer up! Cheer up! Cheer up!" spoke another voice. But the first one went on, saying:

"Oh, it is all very well to talk about cheering up, but we are in such trouble!"

"Ha!" cried jolly Uncle Wiggily. "This is where I come in! I like to help those in trouble! Who are you and what is the matter?"

Then he and the two little rabbits saw a father and mother robin sitting sadly on a low bush. One of the mother bird's wings drooped to the side.

"I am Mr. Robin and this is my wife," said the red-breasted chap. "We lived in the south during the time when you had winter in the north. And when spring came and we started up, my wife flew against a telegraph wire and hurt her wing. Now she can fly but slowly."

"And I cannot help Rob build a nest in which to lay my eggs," said Mrs. Robin. "He cannot build a nest alone—it would take too long. What are we going to do?"

"What are you going to do?" cried Uncle Wiggily. "Why, you are coming to my hollow stump bungalow and live in the old nest my two little rabbits, Skipped and Nipper, just found! The nest is in my shed. I'll put it up in a tree, your husband can fasten it there and your nest house will be all ready for you."

"Oh, joy!" sang Mr. Robin. Then he flew to the bungalow, while Skipper and Nipper, with Uncle Wiggily's help, made a little hammock from vines and carried Mrs. Robin. The old nest was put in a tree and Mrs. Robin nestled down in its softness.

"It is as good a nest as we could have made," she said. "I am so glad you saved it for us, Uncle Wiggily."

"You must thank Skipper and Nipper also," laughed the bunny gentleman, and the robins did. And all that beautiful snmmer, while Mrs. Robin taught her little birds to fly, Mr. Robin perched on the old nest and sang: "Cheer up! Cheer up! Cheer up!"

And if the circus elephant doesn't lose the key of his trunk so he can't open it to take out a peanut I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the clam shell.

Heart and Home — Health and Happiness

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Mrs. B.—Yes, occasionally a polypus will grow again after being cut off. Polypi are abnormal pear-shaped growths from the mucous membranes of the nose, bladder, rectum, etc. The growth producing membrane cannot always be all removed. A second operation has to be performed if they grow again.

Hemophilia is a condition in which the blood does not coagulate properly, so even trivial injuries may be serious. It is usually hereditary. The diet should be the diet I am recommending all of the time for good health. It is—three or four glasses of milk; liberal helpings of vegetables, especially the green leaf vegetables; large salads, fruit, whole grain cereals and breads, and so on. With Hemophilia plenty of milk with its high calcium salts should be taken, for one theory as to the cause of the disease is that there may be a deficiency of calcium salts in the blood.

"Dear Doctor:—

"A little over a year ago, I got your instructions on reducing. I am only 19 years of age, and I weighed 158 pounds. I now weight 136 pounds and have a much more pleasing figure. I have spread your wonderful message to many of my friends and now they are bringing the message to their friends and so it will go on making a healthy and happy nation. Praise be to Allah for the good work you are doing! The only thing I would like to do now is to reduce my legs and ankles.—Your steadfast follower.—B."

You can give heavy massage to your ankles and legs and take special exercises for them. One of our followers writes that she reduced hers by wearing elastic surgical stockings. You can get them at any surgical supply house. Constant pressure does undoubtedly help.

There is a corrugated hand massager with which you can give yourself massage that is very good, not only for fat in spots but for general fat. I'll give the name of this roller on request.

The size of the ankles and legs is not always controllable because it seems to be an inherited characteristic. However, much can be done by a general reduction and special exercises. I think your other troubles will be lessened when you practice the instructions given in the articles which you requested. Thank you, dear, for spreading the message.

Mrs. D.—The medical profession will conquer cancer sooner or later unless the anti-vivisectionists are successful in doing away with all animal experimentation.

There was a report in the newspapers recently that a serum had been perfected which would cure cancer not too far gone. I understand the final report is going to be given to the world very soon. I cannot tell about this, because I have read only the newspaper reports. We do know this about cancer—chronic irritations, such as the irritation from a ragged tooth, or the irritation of smoking, will cause cancer in the mouth. We know that warts and moles in a position to be irritated are apt to take on cancer growths later in life.

There are some notable physicians who believe that a diet lacking in the elements the system needs, combined with chronic absorptions from the intestinal putrefactions, does predispose to cancer formation. They attribute the increase of cancer to the change in our diet from the natural foods containing the elements, to refined foods lacking them.

The only cure we know for cancer now is to have the suspicious tumor removed very early, before the cancer cells are distributed in the body.

The fact that your father died of cancer and your mother is dying of cancer does not mean that you necessarily will die of cancer, because it has not been proved to be hereditary. Keep your weight normal and live a hygienic life. Stop thinking about cancer (not that thinking will cause it, but it will depress you and that undermines your health).

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s.a.s.e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

The housewife who can make good apple dumplings need never ask herself the question: "What new desert can I serve my family?" Her family will prefer this old favorite to any new variety of pudding. Apple dumplings, both baked and steamed, should be served frequently. For the sake of the inexperienced housekeeper I am going to tell just how to make them:

Baked Apple Dumplings: Sift together two and one-half cups of flour, four teaspoons of baking powder, one tablespoon of granulated sugar, and one-fourth teaspoon of salt. Work three tablespoons of butter into this dry mixture with one cup of sweet milk. Turn the dough out onto a floured board, and gently roll it out to one-fourth inch in thickness. With a sharp knife cut it in pieces four inches square and, in the center of each square, place one tablespoon of chopped raw apples which have been sweetened and flavored with a dash of ground cinnamon and ground nutmeg. Fold up the edges, pressing them together over the apples, and place each little dumpling on a buttered baking pan with the folded side down. Bake for 25 to 30 minutes in a hot oven and serve hot with hard sauce.

Steamed Apple Dumplings: Sift together two cups of bread flour, four tablespoons of baking powder, and one-fourth teaspoon of salt. Work into this dry mixture with the finger tips two tablespoons of butter. Wet with three-quarters of a cup of sweet milk, then toss the dough out onto a floured board and gently put it down to one-half inch in thickness. Now take a rolling pin and lightly roll it to one-fourth inch in thickness, then cut in four-inch squares as above described, placing several slices of raw apples in the center of each square. These apples are also raw, sweetened, flavored with ground cinnamon and nutmeg, but they are cut in eighths instead of chopped. Bring up the edges of the dough over them, and press firmly together. Carefully lift each dumpling into a buttered five-pound lard pail, put on tight-fitting cover, and stand the pail in a large saucepan containing rapidly boiling water which reaches half way up the sides of the pail. Weight down the pail if necessary. Let the water continue to boil around it for one and one-half hours, then serve the dumplings hot with any good hard sauce.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

ANSWERED LETTERS

Mrs. J. W.—Unless you know exactly the nature of a mole, it is risky to attempt to remove it yourself. Any bleach that is strong enough to change the color of a dark mole would be very irritating and might easily leave a scar. The small bright red moles should never be touched except by a skin specialist.

Merry Lips—Vanishing creams sometimes coarsen the pores if there is any such tendency; but since you have not stated what was in the cream, I can only assume that your cream is at fault and suggest that you change it.

The best creams are made from a fine quality of almond or olive oil. If you cannot purchase one of these it is better to make your own.

M. L.—If you use one of the concave nail brushes made up of rows of small, stiff bristles, you will have no trouble in scrubbing under the nails so as to remove all soil and grease very quickly.

Mrs. M. J. D.—As the final rinse after a shampoo, make a blue water from laundry bluing, to the shade of that for rinsing linens. Always use a fine white soap for shampooing white hair, preferably the old fashioned castile. You have probably been using the wrong kind of soap which accounts for your hair turning yellow, but it will throw off this shade in time if you shampoo it as suggested.

Jennie E., Betty—A good treatment for dandruff is to massage either olive or crude oil into the scalp a number of hours before shampooing the hair. A convenient plan is to do this the night before and tie up your head in a towel to protect the bed linen from the oil stain. Massage the scalp every day to improve its circulation, and several times each week include with this a suitable hair tonic.

Tootsie—After you have fully grown up your legs will not be too large for the rest of your body.

Miss G.—There is nothing in sweet milk to whiten the skin. Buttermilk has an acid in it that acts as a mild bleach. The trouble you complain of as "gooseflesh" on your upper arms seems to be a natural occurrence with some women, sometimes it runs through families. You can improve it by scrubbing with a stiff bathbrush and by bathing in strong, salty water. A few Turkish baths should rid you of the tendency for a time, and then each time you are troubled, repeat the baths.

Pegs—Consult the doctor about this unnatural condition of dryness to your skin and scalp. If creams and oils do not relieve the trouble it shows there is some disorder of the system.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

FIREMEN WIN IN TWILIGHT LEAGUE

Smoke Eaters Defeat Radios In Opening Game, 7-5, In Five Innings

The opening game of the Twilight season, featuring the Firemen and the Radios, ended in a victory for the smoke-eaters, 7 to 5, the game going five full innings. The Radios got in part of an inning of batting practice before the game was called, and scored six runs, but inasmuch as the side had not been retired at 7 o'clock, the time limit, the extra six runs were not counted.

Annon, pitcher for the Firemen, in addition to getting eight strikeouts in five innings and holding the Radios to five hits, starred at bat with two hits and two runs, and driving in three runners. Canargo pitched for the Radios and fanned six.

Tonight the Huli Trucks will meet the Calla Lily team, the game being scheduled to start at 5:30 o'clock and end at 7 o'clock. Tomorrow night the Glendale Creamery meets the Postoffice employes. All games will be played at the Harvard High school diamond, and admission is free.

Benefit Ring Show Is Planned For Nofziger

The Managers' Association of Southern California will stage a benefit vaudeville, boxing and wrestling show on Thursday night, June 11, for Jack Nofziger, newspaper artist, whose baby daughter was killed in an automobile accident some time ago. Nofziger is a former professional baseball player. The benefit will be held at the I. O. O. F. hall, Tenth and Olive streets, Los Angeles.

STARTS TRAINING

NEW YORK, May 12.—Tom Gibbons, St. Paul challenger for the heavyweight title, will leave today, accompanied by Manager Eddie Kane and his sparring partners, for Atlantic City, where he will put his finishing touches on training for his bout with Gene Tunney at the Polo grounds on June 5. Tunney has been in active training at White Sulphur Springs, N. Y., for more than a week.

REAL SLUGFEST

Those happy, carefree days at the annual grocers' picnic were revived when the Browns massacred a squad of Yank pitchers and won, 19 to 10, both clubs being confined to twenty-nine scattered hits. Sisler hit safely in his twenty-sixth consecutive game and has just begun to shoot.

His Success Biggest Puzzle

JESS PETTY, southpaw star of the American association last season, has not started out any too well with the Brooklyn Dodgers this year. He walked eight men in six innings, but in another game allowed only four hits to the Boston Braves.

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Written for The Evening News.

Is Jess Petty, southpaw star of the American association last year, going to prove a big winner or a bloomer for the Brooklyn Dodgers?

Any one who can answer this question authoritatively should get in touch with Uncle Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Dodgers. For right now Uncle Robbie is at sea regarding the lefthander.

Petty led the American Association with twenty-nine victories and eight defeats for the Indianapolis club last season. He had had some big league experience three or four years ago. Brooklyn scouts figured he could step right into the box and deliver. He appeared to be ready when the Dodgers left Florida.

Robbie sent him in against the New York Giants in the first game with the champs. The Giants promptly hammered him out of the box in six innings. He allowed eight hits and walked a man for every hit.

The next time he started the Phillies hammered him out of the box. Manager Robinson began to wonder whether or not the club had been "stuck."

Then Reversal Form

Then, the other day, Robbie sent Petty in against the Braves. Now Bancroft's team has been playing some fairly good ball although they have had trouble winning games. Petty wound his left-handed shoots around the necks and belts of the Brave batters with the wizardry that he had shown in the A. A. When the game ended he had allowed just four hits. He walked but four men and fanned five batters.

The Dodgers, meanwhile, had been having a field day at the expense of four Brave pitchers and collected a total of fifteen runs. Petty could have eased off conscientiously in the later innings of the game but he seemed determined to show Uncle Robbie that he had the stuff. The Braves were forced to inject a pinch hitter in the ninth in their efforts to shove over the second of two runs they managed to score on him.

Half a dozen big league clubs were after Petty last winter. None of them wanted to meet the terms Owner Smith and Manager Bush asked for the big gent. When I talked with Smith at Plant City, Fla., early in the spring, he explained his side of the matter.

Made Hoosier Team

"Petty was the greatest pitcher in the A. A. last year," said Smith. "It is an old saying that a good southpaw can make a ball club. Petty has proved it with us. We figured that he could prove it in the big show. We asked a price in keeping with that estimation."

The Dodgers finally won out in the race for Petty because they could offer the Indianapolis bosses a good minor league southpaw in addition to cash. Dutch Henry was the man. Henry, with New Orleans last season, ranked second in earned runs allowed per game. He won ten and lost two games after joining them from the Dodgers. He has had big league experience. He should be able to turn in a fair list of victories in Petty's place.

Petty has been nine years climbing to the top. He started with San Antonio in 1916. As related before, he was up three or four years ago, with the Cleveland Indians, but couldn't get the right slant at the game. He proved a hard man to handle. He is now 30 years old, however, and has settled down to the serious business of pitching.

SPOIL SHUTOUT

Shaute had it spelled shut-out for the Athletics until the eighth when Harris' double, Bishop's single and Dykes' single nipped the Indians at the wire, 2 to 1.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News. Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, May 12.—The St. Louis Browns could not win the pennant in 1924, but they contributed a lot toward keeping Detroit out of it. And history appears to be in a fair way to repeat itself this season.

Just as last year the Browns defeated the Tigers, while the Tigers were good enough against the rest of the Western clubs to keep in the fight, so the Browns are trimming the Tigers again this season—only worse. Detroit may overcome the handicap. It has the major part of the season left in which to do it. But the start is too much like last year's to augur well.

The Browns take hold of the Detroit pitchers like a pup grabbing a ball of yarn. In the eight games played between the two clubs so far this year, they have made eighty-five hits against the Tigers for a batting average of .299 plus. Only twice have the Tiger pitchers escaped with less than double figures in base hits, the Browns' total in those two games being seven and eight respectively.

Any team that can pound another's pitchers consistently for around .300 has more than an Indian sign on its rival, and in this case it looks as if the Detroits either are not as effective in the box as they were expected to be, or that the St. Louis Browns as a club, have no fear of them.

It must not be overlooked that Sisler has been doing some good work for the Browns, batting around .400. Still, Sisler is not all of the attack that St. Louis can turn up against the Tigers, for the percentage of victories is .625, which would take the Browns to a pennant if they could direct their fire with the same energy against the other clubs.

Pitching must have a good deal to do with it, however, for the Browns licked Cleveland but two games in the same period, and could get only three from Chicago, while the Sox won four from them. It begins to look as if the Browns knew about everything there is to know about the Detroit pitching.

Folks are beginning to wonder whether Sisler is not nearing a record for hitting safely in consecutive games. He has a long way to go, even to reach his own record of forty-one. He hasn't reached thirty yet. And after he reaches his own old record, he still has a little more traveling to do.

Willie Keeler set the present record at forty-four, and Bill Dahlen, one of the best shortstops the game ever saw, though he doesn't get half the credit from the modern generation to which he is entitled, comes next with forty-two.

Had Dahlen been as good at personal press agentry as he was at shortstopping, he would have been one of the really big figures in baseball history. But Dahlen was not given to that sort of lost motion. He preferred playing a good game of ball to talking about it.

WALT GOING STRONG

Men may come and men may go but Water Johnson goes on like Tennyson's brook. He went on yesterday to his one hundred and eighth shutout in beating the White Sox 9 to 0. Sir Walter fanned four, bringing his lifetime total to 3232.

XXII—Water with Milk

It is not necessary to drink water while on the milk diet, though if one has the desire for liquid there is no objection to taking it. There is such a large quantity of water in the milk that, as a rule, no one has a desire for water, that is, if one is taking sufficient milk to flush the system. When a smaller quantity is taken in some instances there is a desire for water, which can easily be satisfied and with benefit.

Sometimes the milk diet is inclined to make one feel lazy and logy, and if he should give way to his natural instincts under these circumstances he would rest most of the time. This feeling of laziness, of course, is due greatly to the unusual amount of energy required in digesting and assimilating such a large quantity of milk. Under these circumstances it is best to reduce the quantity of milk. I have found that three quarts of milk per day will furnish strength enough to do fairly hard labor, so if a person is not trying to gain weight rapidly they need not fear loss of strength from taking this amount.

The milk diet is especially beneficial in tuberculosis cases. Some care must be used in the advanced stages of this disease to prevent the danger of hemorrhage, which is often a possibility owing to the increased quantity of blood so suddenly supplied, and the consequently greater blood pressure in the lungs as elsewhere.

If there are weakened tissues in any part of the lungs the possibility of hemorrhage is much more imminent, so that the patient suffering from this disease should especially try to avoid violent movements.

In a case of this kind it is also well to increase the amount of milk each day very gradually. In this way the tissues of the lungs will adjust themselves to the new conditions and the greater blood supply and pressure. The increased vitality soon to be gained in this way will also develop such strength as to make hemorrhage unlikely after a week or two upon the milk diet. It is well to start on one glass per meal three times daily; if this does not give enough strength it may be increased a little each day at each meal.

I do not advise the consumptive to avoid the milk diet for fear of hemorrhage, because in many cases it offers the only hope for life, and under a competent physician who understands the milk cure there is very little or no danger.

Hold Final Eisteddfod Contests In Glendale

The Glendale district Eisteddfod committee yesterday voted to accept an invitation to stage final Eisteddfod contests for all Southern California in orchestral and choral club competitions. Grade school choruses from all parts of Southern California will likewise vie for final honors here. Elementary school orchestras will compete at Burbank. The contests will be held during the week of June 6 to 14.

The Eisteddfod committee met at the Egyptian Village cafe at noon yesterday. R. Ernest Tucker read a financial report of the week's Eisteddfod activities here, showing total expenditures of $1,250 and receipts amounting to $1,247. The fact that the Eisteddfod contests cleared themselves the first year was considered exceptional. Mr. Tucker said that Ventura county lost approximately $2,000 upon the first attempt at staging contests in that county.

Those making reports at the meeting were Chairman A. L. Baird, Mrs. Dan Campbell, H. M. Butts, Mrs. Max Lynn Green, Mrs. Charles B. Fisher of Burbank, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, Mrs. Charles H. Vandewater, Mrs. Roy S. Ballagh, Mrs. W. Q. Widdows and others. George Lyons, president of Community Service, praised the Eisteddfod committee for its splendid work. Alex Mitchell spoke briefly, asking the committee to support the forthcoming school bond issue.

COLORADO HAS 'RAINMAKER' IN MIND

Local Moisture Creator May Be Called To Break Drought In State

Charles H. Hatfield, nationally-known "rainmaker" of Glendale, may be summoned to Colorado within the next few days to break the drouth that has grown to serious proportions in that state, it was learned today, following his return from New Orleans, where he voluntarily cancelled a contract when conditions led him to believe rain was about to fall.

The Colorado drouth has attracted much attention because of numerous public prayers that have failed to bring results. Hatfield said today that conditions are at their best in the Rocky mountain regions of Colorado to produce rainfall, and he declared that within a month he could bring about a rainfall of from three to four inches.

"Humidity is high in that state," said the rainmaker today. "The altitude is high and all conditions are good. Within three days of beginning operations I am certain I could produce an inch of rainfall, and, if I continued for a month, at least three to four inches of rain would fall.

Has Several Offers

"I have several offers on hand at the present time, but I believe Colorado needs rain the worst right at present. They have had no moisture since January 1, and conditions have grown exceedingly serious. A place in southern Texas, where cotton and cattle are the staple commodities, is in need of rain, and a spot in eastern Oregon also is experiencing a serious drouth.

"I have also received queries from a point about 200 miles north of New Orleans, in Mississippi. The sugar cane planters of New Orleans may also want be to return to break the drouth at that place. I promised them I would if they needed me.

"Reports were issued over a wire service out of New Orleans after I had left there recently that my contract was broken because it rained before I started operations. That is untrue. The drouth is not broken yet.

"I contracted with the planters to produce a total of two inches of rainfall during a period of twenty-one days, and was to be paid $8000 for my services. The money was placed in escrow and I was ready to begin work.

"Then the sky darkened, and all conditions indicated that a heavy rainfall was due. Voluntarily I released the planters from their contract, and left the same day on my return trip to Glendale. But it was only a false hope. It did not rain, nor has it rained to this day."

CROPS GET BOOST BY VALLEY RAINS

Downpour Starts in Region Around Sacramento and Moves Southward

SACRAMENTO, May 12.—Prospects for the best crops in many years were enhanced by the rain which today was falling throughout the Sacramento valley and moving down the San Joaquin valley, according to N. R. Taylor, U. S. weather bureau here.

Grains of all kinds throughout northern California never looked better and the rain is a godsend to the deciduous fruit trees, Taylor said. Some slight injury, however, may result to hay if the storm should continue, but this is not probable, according to Taylor.

Frost danger after the storm passes was slight, he said. From the agricultural standpoint, the season, to date, has been unexceptional.

Rainfall throughout the Sacramento valley totaled about half an inch for the present storm, according to reports.

EXTENSION OF RAIL LINE IS PROPOSED

Advancement Association Members Hear Plan to Improve Service

The possible extension of the Glendale-Montrose railway line from Glendale Junction, formerly Glassell Park, as far as the Arcade depot in Los Angeles, in order to afford through service to patrons going to Los Angeles, loomed today after J. F. McClish advocated such an extension before a large audience at the meeting of the Glendale Advancement association.

The extension of the road would mean the expenditure of at least $150,000 for additional cars and other necessary equipment, Preston L. Hatch, manager of the Glendale-Montrose railway, told the Advancement body. Whether his company would be willing to invest this additional cash on the line, he was not prepared to say.

In view of the fact that extension of the Los Angeles line of the Arcade depot would mean additional facilities and accommodations for their patrons, it is believed that part of the expense of extending the line will be borne by the Union Pacific railroad which uses the Glendale avenue tracks for an entrance into Glendale.

In urging the extension, Mr. McClish pointed out that no new trackage or permission to use the tracks of any other railway would be necessary, the Glendale avenue line at present extending on into Los Angeles to the Arcade station and from there to San Pedro and Los Angeles harbor.

The Advancement association also discussed proposed school bond issues, hearing a report from Herman Nelson, secretary of the organization, and a number of the citizens' school committee of fifteen. The meeting was held at the Harriett Mae Tea room, C. W. Ingledue, presiding.

LARGE NUMBER OF LAWS ATTACKED

Bert P. Woodard Speaks on Excessive Measures at Exchange Club

The blame for excessive laws in any state as well as the entire nation, lies with the people, Attorney Bert P. Woodard told members of the Glendale Exchange club, in an address delivered at the meeting today noon at the Masonic temple. Attorney Woodard urged the naming of a commission to prevent useless and selfish laws being passed.

The large number of laws, many of them unknown to judges and attorneys, result in many persons becoming lawbreakers unintentionally, he said. He praised the stand of Exchange clubs in taking actions against excessive lawmaking. President William Baker presided at the meeting.

Members of the local club will leave Glendale at 5 o'clock on Friday morning for Santa Barbara, in order to attend the opening session of the state convention at 10 nounced. J. Ripley Jackson, chairman of stunt committee, announced Dr. G. A. Campbell, R. E. Johnston, Carl Christy and W. Claire Anspach would sing Glendale songs at the convention.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service

NEW YORK, May 12.—Railroad and motor stocks led the market into higher price levels today before signs of heaviness appeared. Prices of a number of the best-known stocks, including American Can and Frisco common, exceeded their best previous records, while motor stocks continued to attract heavy outside buying.

Stocks were offered quite freely after the noon period, when traders who had been following the rise for a week or more sold to take profits. Such sales were well absorbed and simultaneously good buying appeared in the oil stocks, stimulated by the government figures for March gasoline consumption, showing an increase of 36 per cent over the same month last year.

Today's session took up immediately the aggressive forward movement in the motor shares which closed Monday's session, and in the course of which motor stocks accounted for 34 per cent of all transactions on the big board.

Willys-Overland common and preferred ran forward briskly to new high prices, as also did the Dodge, Pierce-Arrow and General Motors shares.

The railroad stocks made a good showing in the early trading, but speculative interest turned from the rails to the oils when it was found that the latter responded more readily to the tactics of professional traders. The preliminary reports from the important oil fields indicated a smaller gain in light crude oil production this week, while gasoline consumption has enormously increased. Marland was a leader in the independent oil stocks with a gain of 1½ points.

Standard Oil of New Jersey moved up a point to the highest price on the current movement, and other leading independent oils, like Pacific, Mid-Continent, California Petroleum, General Petroleum, Independent and Union Oil, sold at higher prices. Oil stocks have remained nearly stationary since the March decline, and were therefore in good position to respond to the extremely favorable developments affecting the industry.

Price movements in the main body of industrial stocks were inconspicuous. After reaching a new high at 189⅜, American Can retired to the background.

Call money opened at 3½ per cent, but was moved up to 3¾ in the fourth hour. Outside markets were generally steady, cotton recovering a good part of Monday's losses.

Profit-taking in motors and utilities arrested the forward movement in this branch of the market in the last hour. The industrials also failed to gain, and reactionary movements were in progress in important sections of the market.

Call money rates advanced in the last hour to 4 per cent.

Sales today, 1,738,000 shares; bonds, $14,705,000.

BIBB BARGAINS

Absolutely $1000 Underpriced

No need for a lengthy description, but just a few facts: This is a mighty nice, well built home, only 6 months old: 5 large rooms and separate breakfast room; everything up to the minute. It is located just one block from Broadway High School. The lot is cheap, figuring it at $2500; and you could not build the house for a cent less than $4500. And if you built it yourself you could not finance it on these terms. Now, then, you can buy this actually worth $7000 property for $6000, with $1000 down and terms to suit you. Owner is forced to sacrifice. Folks, these are positive facts. Come and see for yourself.

'Legal' Notice Calls Local Lions To Eat

The Glendale den of Lions will meet at 12 o'clock tomorrow at the Harriett Mae tea room for the regular Wednesday luncheon meeting, announces A. J. Van Wie, chairman of the entertainment committee. The notice to the members was sent out by Van Wie in the form of a "Notice of the improvement of public works," and contains the information that a heavy penalty is provided for non-appearance of members and that all protests must be made in person. The notice reads like a summons from the city hall, where Van Wie presides as city clerk.

Keyes In San Francisco To Check Up Lists; Local Men On Books

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—A conference was to take place here today between District Attorney Matthew Brady of San Francisco and District Attorney Asa Keyes of Los Angeles, in connection with Keyes' investigation into an alleged $6,000,000,000 railroad merger swindle believed to have been uncovered in the southern city with the arrest there last week of two men giving the names of Harry D. Hibbs and Thomas Hennessy.

District Attorney Brady said Keyes had telephoned asking for a conference, which was promptly arranged.

Keyes believed several San Francisco capitalists had been induced to invest in the alleged schemes of Hibbs and Hennessy, who promised a ten to one return on all money they received.

Glendale Realty Man Denies He Invested

The asserted gigantic rail swindle case in Los Angeles, in which Thomas Hennessey and Harry D. Hibbs are alleged to have collected large sums of money from Southern California business men on the promise of ten-for-one returns when a railroad merger was effected, took a local turn today when the names of two persons in Glendale appeared on the list of 'clients" of the two men. The names given were Arthur Campbell, prominent realtor, 110-A East Broadway, and Dr. C. L. Malence, 116 East Broadway.

"They didn't get anything from me," was the comment of Mr. Campbell, regarding the report. "About six weeks ago a man I had known for two or three years introduced to me one of their high-pressure salesmen. The whole proposition, as outlined to me at that time, looked so ridiculous that after they left I thought about reporting the case to the police. I didn't invest. It looked too good to be true, so I passed it up."

The city directory does not list a Dr. C. L. Malence at 116 East Broadway, or any other place in Glendale. However, Dr. C. L. Marlenee resides at 301 South Central avenue and has an optical business at 114 East Broadway. Efforts to reach Dr. Marlenee today brought the report that he was out of the city.

United States, France Close To Agreement

stronger from a credit and trade position because she has made a start toward paying her debts. France may need further credits to handle her internal as well as external debts for the rate of interest she is obliged to pay is increasing rather than diminishing.

Main Objective

It is believed, therefore, that M. Caillaux's objective is as much to restore France to a favorable position among American investors as it is to keep the sentimental ties between France and the United States from being broken on the rocks of materialism.

The merest gesture has been made thus far by France, but it is a significant one. The United States government has not irritated France with untimely demands during the recent Herriot cabinet crisis but has waited patiently for the new French ministry to get into action. The initiative, it will be noted, was taken by Minister Caillaux in his conversation with Ambassador Herrick and though the communications between a Finance Minister and an Ambassador are necessarily unofficial and informal they may set in motion the official machinery.

Commission Waiting

The American debt funding commission has been waiting for some indication from France of a willingness to take up the subject and while Ambassador Herrick will naturally transmit the French request that he be given instructions on the tentative proposals of the French finance minister, it is not to be expected that the debt commission will make formal reply until the department of state through Ambassador Herrick has informally expressed its views.

More and more it is apparent that the French want America to accept a percentage of the receipts France receives from Germany annually under the Dawes plan. This alone would probably not be satisfactory for America would want the French government to continue responsibility for the payment of the war debt irrespective of whether or not particular sources of revenue are productive. In the sense that different proposals are being made the situation may be regarded as encouraging. Guided somewhat by Britain's experience, France may see the true value of making sacrifices to convince American public opinion that the professions of her statesmen have behind them a real plan of action.

Ambassador Herrick Denies Note Sent On French Debt

PARIS, May 12.—Myron T. Herrick, American ambassador to Paris, today received American correspondents at the embassy and in a statement to them denied a note in a reference to the French debt had been transmitted to the Painleve government. He said the next information on the subject would have to come from the state department at Washington.

"First, I wish to say there has been no note," the ambassador said. "There have been communications between the state department and myself regarding debts, but nothing concrete has been done to justify a definite statement. Any information in future on this subject must come from the state department at Washington.

"The Herriot government broke the ice regarding debts. And much to their surprise they found popular support for some sort of debt settlements. Even Louis Loucheur (former minister of reconstruction), who several years ago prophesied the debt would never be repaid, now is for settlement."

Mail Inspectors Enter Chase For Hall, Tanko, With Heavy Rail Ally

SACRAMENTO, May 12.—San Quentin and Folsom prison guards today joined in a search in the Iowa hill district, six miles from Colfax, where Joe Tanko and Floyd Hall, fugitive murderers were believed to have taken refuge after robbing a cabin Sunday afternoon.

A driving rainstorm swept the area during the night and police were convinced that the outlaws will be forced to make a new break for freedom.

As the rain continued this morning, Chief of Police Bernard McShane tightened the police line encircling the Iowa hill district and placed additional guards on all bridges over the American river.

U. S. Takes Hand

"Tanko and Hall are confronted with indescribable hardships," said McShane, "and it is only reasonable to expect that they will make another drive to get through our lines if the storm continues."

Five United States postal inspectors who entered the chase yesterday as a result of the seizure by the bandits last week of a government mail truck, today started a systematic search of the district where the killers were believed to be in hiding.

Liquor Craft Seeking New Point Of Landing

Francisco, to dispatch at least five of these speedy chasers to augment the two old sluggish cutters stationed at San Pedro and San Diego and which are admittedly powerless to cope with the rum smugglers.

Today it was known that at least 10,000-ton liquor laden steamers were hovering off Southern California, dispensing case goods to fleets of small speed boats, while but one vessel was on guard duty—the cutter Vaughan, off San Pedro—with a maximum speed of 14 knots as against 20 knots for the rum-runners. The Tamaroa is at dock in San Diego taking on supplies and not expected to put to sea until tonight or tomorrow.

Withdrawal of Rum Fleet Is Forecast

NEW YORK, May 12.—The complete withdrawal of the booze armada from rum row was expected within the next twenty-four hours by officers of the coast guard who returned to the Clifton, Staten Island, base today. The bootleg vessels have been blockaded for more than a week by coast guard.

The officers reported that only four ships of the once large whiskey fleet remained to face the government boats. With supplies getting low, the departure of these ships was expected before tomorrow.

Captain A. E. Jacobs, commandant of the coast guard in the New York area, confirmed reports of the rum ships' flight. "All I am permitted to say," he said. "Is that rum row is showing signs of rapid disintegration."

$100,000 Fire Wrecks Hotel In Burlingame

BURLINGAME, May 12.—Damage estimated at $100,000 was done by a spectacular fire which partially wrecked the Portola hotel here early today. There were no casualties. Two hundred persons were forced to the streets in scanty attire. The blaze, which for a time threatened the entire Burlingame business district, was put out after a hard fight by the combined fire departments of Burlingame, San Mateo and Hillsborough.
